

The Pacific Commercial Advertiser

Issued Every Morning, Except Sunday, by the

HAWAIIAN GAZETTE COMPANY

At No. 318 Merchant Street.

W. N. ARMSTRONG, : : EDITOR.

MONDAY. : SEPTEMBER 10, 1894.

FROM this date, my connection with the Hawaiian Gazette Company ceases; and with it my general oversight of the PACIFIC COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER, the HAWAIIAN GAZETTE and the KUOKOA terminates. Having long held intimate relations as publisher, business manager or editor with each of these popular journals, and their numerous patrons here and abroad, I cannot refrain from expressing the hope that the same favor which has always been shown to these publications may be continued to them under the new administration.

It may be of interest here to state that the ADVERTISER was commenced by me July 2, 1856; the HAWAIIAN GAZETTE also, October 1, 1861, while the GAZETTE was leased by me from the Hawaiian Government in January, 1873. These are consequently the oldest English and Hawaiian papers published in these Islands, now in existence, excepting only the Monthly Friend.

H. M. WHITNEY.
Honolulu, Sept. 10, 1894.

THE mission of the ex-Queen's friends to Washington is gradually clearing the political air. It has removed grave doubts in the minds of influential friends of the Monarchy, although it brought no settlement of any question to the Ex-Queen herself, or to the natives generally. It is now highly probable that a strong party of natives will form, and advocate general registration, in the hope of securing control of the House of Representatives. The Government prefers the registration, although it is probable that if the natives predominate in the House, they will show an unfriendly spirit towards the Executive. If they do, the Government must abide by the result, whatever it may be. The framers of the new Constitution granted the natives the opportunity to be heard, in national matters, and if the legislative sessions should not be very harmonious, it will only be a necessary phase of the situation.

REPEALING THE TREATY.

"The high contracting party, on the part of the United States, is the United States, and not the President. Hence, the notice (of the termination of the Reciprocity treaty) must come from the United States, which, in the abrogation of the treaty, speaks by Act of Congress. The treaty is a part of the law of the land, and it can be repealed only as other laws are repealed, except in the case in which the President, by and with the consent of the Senate, frames another treaty. The latter then becomes the law of the land." It is, therefore, believed that the President alone cannot terminate the present treaty with the United States.

While the above is an opinion given by able and careful lawyers, in San Francisco, it should be distinctly kept in mind by those who are interested in the production of sugar, that it is the Courts which finally make the law, in such cases. The opinions of the most careful lawyers are certainly disapproved of by the Courts. "I can tell you what the law ought to be," said an eminent counsellor, "but it is the Judges only who can say what it is."

Therefore, in any speculative ventures in matters connected with sugar, it must be kept well in mind that, whether or not the President of the United States has the sole power to terminate the Reciprocity treaty, is an uncertain matter.

If he has the power, whether he will use it or not is another question. There is strong reason for believing that he will not terminate it. This is the belief of some men in Washington, who are in a position to judge correctly in the matter. Whatever the President's disposition may be toward the Republic, he is forced to keep the importance of Pearl Harbor in mind, even if he does not put the highest estimate upon it which naval and army men do. Speculative men will consider the chances of the continuance of the treaty as rather preponderating.

THE WASHINGTON LEGATION.

During the absence of Mr. Thurston from Washington, while doing most valuable service here, the interests of the Republic have been admirably cared for by Mr. Hastings, our Charge d'Affaires. At one time, the advantages to us, arising out of the new tariff, were in great danger of being lost, through the inadvertent action of the Senate, but the quick, effective and persistent work of Mr. Hastings removed the peril, and we shall be benefitted, during the next year, at least, by the extra inflow of several millions of dollars. Strong friends of the Republic in both houses of Congress, have expressed their gratification at Mr. Hastings' excellent work. Here, as well as elsewhere, there is danger of forgetting services rendered to the public, for the public is usually ungrateful.

Able men knowing this are disposed to refuse office. Considering the vital importance of our relations with the United States, it is important that our representatives be adequately, if not generously paid. The salary of the Minister and of the Charge in Washington are grossly inadequate. Interests here of the value of many millions are at stake, while the salaries paid are inferior to the earnings of some of the vegetable gardeners around Washington. The splendid work of the late Mr. Carter, as Minister to the United States, was more fully appreciated in Washington than here. Neither Mr. Thurston or Mr. Hastings ask any increase of salary, but those who understand the situation regret that the little Republic does not, immediately, put its representatives on a financial footing, which will enable them to work to the best advantage. People here, generally, have no idea of the importance, variety and difficulty of the work which must be done by them. Indeed, it would be singular, if their physical powers could stand the burden of it, if they should attempt to do all that it is possible to do. The best work is usually done quietly, and no credit is given for it.

Pay-Day Coming.

China and Japan will pay dearly to the civilized world for the fun of the bloody war upon which they have now entered. They will not only have our guns, ships and other implements of war to buy, but as the conflict progresses Japan, at any rate, will have to depend upon the other nations for food supplies. China is already borrowing money, for which it will pay fat interest.—Exchange.

Since the good people of Maui have constructed a house at the summit of Haleakala there is no reason why a visit to the largest extinct crater in the world should not be included in the itinerary of every personally conducted party to the islands. The great objection in the past to a journey to the summit has been the lack of accommodations for tourists; it's been a climb and do the best they could for rest. Now, however, the weary traveler will be made as comfortable in so far as sleeping accommodations go as it he was at a hotel. The men who conceived and carried out the idea of a house at the summit may be looked upon as benefactors just as we have in introducing a piece of machinery like the Aermotor that has saved so many thousands of dollars to the people who are using them here on the Islands. We sold one the other day to a man who wanted to use it in place of a steam engine for cutting feed for cattle; he thought a 16-foot mill would be necessary, because it always required a 5-horse power engine to do the work. We sold him a 12-foot geared mill, because we were satisfied that it would develop all the power necessary; we believe it would cut nails. The gentleman tells us that it has proven itself a good thing far beyond his expectations. His experience is the same as a hundred or more others to whom we have sold Aermotors. It would surprise us very much to have a person tell us he is dissatisfied with his Aermotor.

Try a bath in a porcelain lined bath tub and compare it with one in an old time zinc affair. The difference is plain. One of our tubs can be kept as clean and with as much ease as a China wash bowl. The dirt which collects around the sides of a zinc tub will not stick to a porcelain one and it forever looks as new as the day it left the store. We have them in various patterns and at different prices, the smaller the tub and fewer the decorations the lower the price and the larger the tub and more elaborate the trimmings the more it costs you. It really would not make any difference if you had to pay double what we ask for them, you would not fail to be pleased with it; it's the comfort one gets out of a tub such as we sell that makes up for the difference between the price we charge and what you pay for a zinc one.

In addition to tubs we have a magnificent assortment of washstands, sinks, closets and everything needed about a bath room. If you have an idea that you want to refit your old bath room or make a new one, come to us and we will tell you to within a dollar or two what it will cost and show you pretty clearly by illustrations what the room will look like when completed. There's an advantage in buying here at home, because you see just what are you going to get and you pay no more for the article than you would by sending away for it.

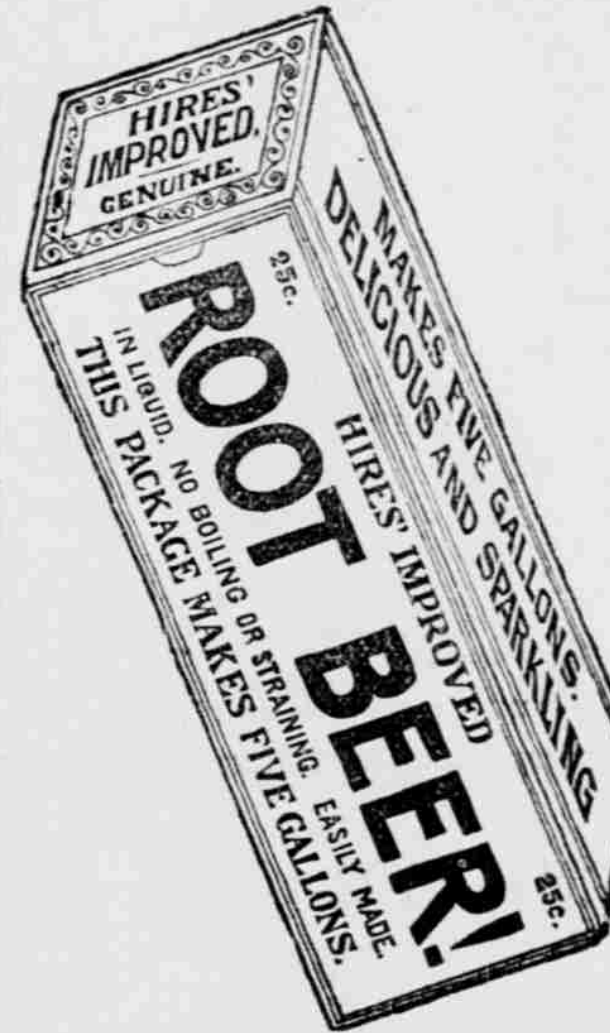

Our remarks on wire have brought us good result. Some people who wanted to build six and three quarter miles of fencing and who wanted to get a serviceable article at a low price came to us for the materials for a Jones Locked. Our wire is cheaper than it can be bought elsewhere and the quality better.

"If It's Hires'
It's Good."

When folks drink more Hires' Rootbeer than all other rootbeers combined, there must be something in Hires', and there is—delicious flavor and public confidence.

Undoubtedly the reason of the popularity of Hires' Rootbeer is, because it surpasses all other preparations for making a delightful home-beverage. It is very easily prepared, and if the plain directions are followed, it will always be good. Every member of the family, from the baby to the grandfather, can enjoy this excellent summer drink. Children especially delight in Hires' Rootbeer. Its preparation interests them, and its use does them good. In thousands of homes, "Hires' Rootbeer that mother made," will be among the happiest recollections of childhood.

What others say will carry conviction:

A DOCTOR IS SURPRISED WITH THE RESULTS.

"About three months ago I bought a package of your Rootbeer, and after making it according to directions, I found it a very delicious beverage. Not only this, but I was so much pleased with it that I gave it to some of my patients, and was much surprised with the result. I have now used about 12 dozen. Dr. M. A. Somers, Plano, Ill."

SAYS ITS GOOD FOR DYSPEPSIA.

"I find great relief in drinking your Rootbeer, as I have been troubled with dyspepsia, and should feel very sorry if I could not keep myself supplied with it. I drink it when it is fermented. R. F. Scott, 2519 Meredith st., Philadelphia."

NEVER FOUND ITS EQUAL.

"I have used your Rootbeer for seven years, and have found it a superior article. I have sampled other rootbeers, but have never found any to equal Hires'. I have so much faith in it that I have persuaded ten different families to use it. Mrs. R. Stevenson, 1027 Lincoln Ave., Chicago."

This is typical weather for root beer drinking. Drink all the other beverages and you will die of disappointment if you don't try Hires'.

Just sample some once when rightly made, and we know the result—you will endorse Hires'.

It is doing more to advance practical temperance than many people realize. It is used and recommended by the most cautious and conservative temperance people. The most scrupulous abstainer can enjoy it and recommend it to others as an agreeable and healthful substitute for the strong drink which he opposes.

Storekeepers will find Hires' the only Rootbeer extract that has a safe sale and can be recommended to their patrons. We give elegant pictorial advertising matter with each order. Liberal discount to the trade.
